The Experience.com Search Rank Score (SRS) Explained

Why Search Rank Matters

In an era where brands live and die by their online presence, being discoverable is no longer a luxury—it's a necessity. The higher your enterprise ranks in online searches, the more likely potential customers are to discover your brand over competitors.

SRS: Your Online Visibility's Credit Karma

Experience.com's SRS is the compass your brand needs in this vast digital landscape. Boasting an 850-point algorithm, SRS quantifies the strength of your online visibility, simplifying the complexities of search engine ranking into an easily digestible score.

Key Components of the SRS

NAP Data (Name, Address, Phone Number)

Your business's digital identity is rooted in the consistency of your NAP data across online platforms. This uniformity not only builds trust but also boosts your search rank.

Additional Profile Data

Think of this as your online CV. Details like hours of operation serve a dual purpose: they solidify your online credibility and improve your search visibility.

Online Listings

The more online listings you have, the more signposts direct potential clients to your enterprise.

The Power of Reviews and Replies

Recent reviews reflect your enterprise's current reputation. Engaging with these reviews further boosts your credibility, both in the eyes of consumers and search engines.

Your Digital HQ: Individual Website

Your website should be the beacon of your brand's authenticity. Elements like security certificates and mobile responsiveness should be consistently maintained to augment your digital authority.

Managed Connections: Bridging Major Platforms

Integrations with platforms like Google and Facebook can amplify your visibility manifold. Experience.com facilitates these integrations, helping you streamline reviews and foster backlinks.
